Earth-conscious clothing is finally something to get legitimately excited about, fashion-wise. A wave of beautifully made, of-the-moment pieces are hitting the market, as designers both established (Phillip Lim, Behnaz Sarafpour) and emerging (like the brilliant Alyson Fox, who launched her line this season) have begun working with organic or recycled fabrics, chemical-free dyes, and sustainable, good-for-the-community production.

eco-friendly
and just as chic as can be.
